

Nooray for you! Still going strong, I see ~
Marguerite SGVN D3

applause

The College Women's Club of Pasadena awarded 12 young women from schools in the Pasadena area three fellowships and nine scholarships totaling $40,000 last month. Among the local awardees are Jenny Wong from Pasadena City College, Dorota Korta from Caltech and Vanessa Knoch and Christy Reeder from Fuller Theological Seminary.

■

Temple City raised more than $2,000 for library programs during its April book sale. More than 300 people attended and 3,000 books were sold. Friends of the Library members said they had hoped to raise $1,000, but the proceeds were double that.

■

Florette Lauber was named the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce "Citizen of the Year." Among her many accomplishments, Lauber was the first woman elected to the Arcadia City Council and was the city's first female mayor. She has served Arcadia and the surrounding foothill communities as a volunteer for 43 years.

■

Art Center College of Design in Pasadena was awarded a grant of $450,000 from The James Irvine Foundation to support diversification of its public programs initiatives. The money will be targeted to the college's Saturday High School and Art Center at Night programs for high school-age students. The grant will support a three-year community outreach program for student recruitment and scholarships, said Scarlett Powers Osterling, the college's senior vice president of institutional advancement.

D4

Digest

A FOCUS ON FAITH

Mormon share of Utah population shrinking

SALT LAKE CITY — Mormons comprise a substantial majority of Utah residents, but their share of the state's population has been declining and will continue to do so in the years ahead, according to projections in a published report.

Within three years, the state will have its lowest share of Mormons since The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints began tallying its membership decades ago, according to estimates by The Salt Lake Tribune. If the trend persists, Mormons will no longer be a Utah major-

Activis

Shaker Elsaye

By Matthew Barakat
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FALLS CHURCH, Va. — The voice of the new image of one of the largest movements on the East Coast rang from the pulpit during day services: "The call to reform is an alien call."

People who do not understand are the ones seeking to change

